

Bisse du Rho

Departure and itinerary

From Crans-Montana, the route begins at the height of the north-west corner of the Grenon pond and the junction of the Rawyl and Fleurs des Champs roads. At the water intake of the bisse, you can reach the Zeuzier Dam, Bellalui, Icogne or Lens. There are sign-posts for these itineraries. For Zeuzier and Bellalui, the climb is quite steep. For Icogne and Lens, the descent is also steep.

A very beautiful and impressive trail for the sure-footed walker. You should only tackle this walk in dry weather and during the summer months. It is strongly discouraged during the winter.

At the water intake of the bisse, to reach the Zeuzier lake there is a 400 metre climb and a 200 metre descent. For Belle Lui, there is a 600 metre climb. For Lens or Icogne there is a 600 to 800 metre descent. You will find many beautiful places to picnic.

Crans-Montana is served all year round by public transport. For the Zeuzier dam (or Rawyl lake), public transport is only effective in summer.
